WILL ROGERS says:
BEVERLY HILLS, Aug. 29.—(To the Editor of The Register.) No wonder the Republican party in this country are careful to do nothing to interfere with big banking interests—look over in England, the Labor party was in but they had no money; they got out and a different bunch in New York and Paris banks loaned 'em a half a billion dollars. Big money only goes to the party that supports big money. I am entering no crusade to end it, I am just telling you how it is—you go ahead and change it.

Laguna Beach Gets Nearly Half Inch of Rain As Streets Are Flooded

Home on La Habra Heights Unroofed—Little Rain Falls in County Seat

DESPITE CLIMBING thermometers and other reminders of the summer time, certain residents of the county believe that the wet season is with us. Witnesses:

At Laguna Beach last night, 45 of an inch of rain fell in an hour's time. Heavy thunder and lightning accompanied the rain and at one time the city's lights were out for three minutes.

The rain rushed down the hills and this morning crews of men were called to clear the streets of mud. Laguna pioneers say last night's storm was very extraordinary.

At Brea, which has had such things happen before but never in the summer, lightning struck an oil tank on the Amalgamated lease east of the city, setting fire to the tank. The tank has a capacity of 10,000 gallons.

WILL SEEK REMOVAL OF POSTOFFICE HEAD

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—(UP)—Representative Michael J. Maas of Minnesota, here on an investigation of postal leases, said today that on the basis of his findings in San Francisco and other cities he will demand the removal of Postmaster General Walter F. Brown.

Postmaster General Brown, now in southern California, will arrive here Monday to attend the national postal supervisors' convention.

Representative Maas cited a lease of the San Francisco Ferry Building postoffice at $108,000 as an example of "excessive postoffice rentals" recently brought to the attention of congress.

Declares Revelations Made Before Committee Be Explained By Pastor

CANNON IN EUROPE

Whether Evidence Will Be Given Attorney General Has Not Been Decided

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—(UP)—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., was challenged today by Chairman Nye of the senate investigating committee to "explain" a series of committee revelations about his 1928 campaign against Alfred E. Smith.

"I think the record as it stands is one that invites a full explanation," the North Dakota senator and investigator said as he adjourned the committee's renewed inquiry after four days of testimony.

"And any explanation made by Cannon, of course, should be made under oath," Nye added.

The record of which Nye spoke charges Cannon with diverting political campaign funds to his private use and with concealing campaign contributions, both violations of the corrupt practices act. It also involves Republican party leaders with the Southern Methodist bishop's militant anti-Smith Democratic campaign.

Cannon is in Europe. Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, author of the resolution that authorized the investigation, accused him of running away and of hiding "his culpability behind the skirts of a woman secretary." The bishop has met all previous requests for an "explanation" with a curt refusal to testify.

Whether the evidence will be turned over to Attorney General Mitchell with a recommendation for prosecution of Cannon will be decided by the committee after a later study of the facts, Nye said. The committee probably will meet again in October.

HALF BILLION IS LOANED TO BRITISH

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(UP)—Private bankers in America and France have extended to the British government a one year credit of $400,000,000 to be used in stabilizing the value of the pound sterling in the foreign exchange markets of the world.

The American share of the credit, $200,000,000, was negotiated through J. P. Morgan & Co., and a nationwide group of more than 100 banks. None of it will be offered to the public.

The French half, however, will consist of a $100,000,000 banking credit and a $100,000,000 British treasury loan, to be sold to the French public at an interest rate understood to be 4 1/2 per cent.

HARMONIZE SCHOOLS WITH TAX REDUCTION

The great mass of taxpayers have been crying for relief from the burdens of excess taxation, and County School Superintendent Ray Adkinson recently complied with that demand by recommending a $195,000 cut in county school budgets.

Now a great hue and cry has gone up, not from the tax-paying public, but from a few school officials and politicians, attempting to show that no economy results, but that the schools will be "crippled." In Anaheim the threat is made that schools might have to close a month earlier because of shortage of money.

The Register has tried to study this question from all angles and all viewpoints. We want to be entirely fair and just. Our conclusion is that the only way to get tax economy is to economize in the expenditure of tax money.

So that the public may judge the merits of the case, we present the following facts which have led to the above conclusions.

Last year the tax rate in the Santa Ana school district was $2.47 per $100 valuation. This year it is tentatively set at $2.43, due to a 5-cent reduction in the "building fund" tax and an increase of 1 cent in the "bonds" rate.

The Huntington Beach rate has been increased from $1.25 last year to $1.40 this year; the Orange rate has been increased from $1.24 last year to $1.88 this year, and the Anaheim rate has been increased from $1.73 last year to $1.85 this year. The Fullerton school board decided to economize on their building program, and have reduced their rate from $1.83 last year to $1.57 this year, due to a big slash in the "high school special" tax rate.

Last year the county tax rate for elementary schools was 38 cents per $100 valuation, and raised the sum of $693,450. This year, instead of cutting their budgets to conform to the 10 per cent reduction in assessed valuation, the schools asked for a total of $700,275, which would have required an increase in the tax rate from 38 cents up to 44.4 cents.

The county tax rate for high schools last year was 25 cents, and raised $467,320. This year they asked for $491,091, which would have required an increase in the rate from 25 cents up to 31 cents. Instead of cutting their budgets, the aggregate requests was for an increase in money and increase in the rates.

The junior colleges received $70,404 last year and this year they have asked for $97,864, an increase of nearly 40 per cent. While reducing by five cents the Santa Ana city tax rate for school buildings, of which we already have too many, the Santa Ana Board of Education wanted the county to increase the rate over the entire county 12.4 cents. While increasing its own local rate 12 cents, the Anaheim board wants the county rate increased 12.4 cents in addition. While increasing its own local rate 15 cents, apparently the Huntington Beach board, from news reports, also wants the county rate raised the 12.4 cents.

All of this leads to the query—where is the economy in our schools which the people have been demanding?

In Santa Ana the teachers have received their increases this year, the budget of the school board being increased in salaries, we are told, by some $18,000 or $20,000. We ask again—where is economy in our schools when no economy measures are undertaken except the postponement of buildings and improvements which we can get along very nicely without, under present conditions?

Compare the following local school tax rates: Santa Ana, $2.43; Orange, $1.88; Anaheim, $1.85; Fullerton, $1.57; Huntington Beach, $1.40. And yet Santa Ana, already with the highest tax rate hereabouts, and with practically all tax items at the maximum rate allowed by law, is the first to oppose Superintendent Adkinson's effort to relieve taxpayers. This move was apparently joined in by Anaheim and Huntington Beach boards of education.

The facts are that the 38 cent tax rate for county schools will this year raise $600,690, when the law only requires that $524,250 shall be raised as a minimum. Also, that the 25-cent high school rate will this year raise $395,190, when the law only requires that $342,420 shall be the minimum requirement. The RATES are the same as last year but the amount is less, due to the assessor's cut of 10 per cent in the county's assessed valuation.

Superintendent Adkinson, by his action on behalf of taxpayers, is forcing the schools to adopt economy measures which we believe they should have done early and voluntarily, knowing in advance that the 10 per cent cut in valuations was coming. If the budgets had been cut 10 per cent in conformity, there would now be no occasion to object to the superintendent's action.

WOMAN ALLEGES HUSBAND URGED 'STEPPING OUT'

A husband who is said to have suggested that both he and his wife "step out" with other men and women for a month in order to see whether they "liked each other" was made defendant in a divorce case here yesterday with the filing of a complaint by Alona Maddox against Otto Maddox.

Mrs. Maddox said that after a separation her husband came to her parents' home where she was staying and took her for a ride, when he suggested that she go to her mother's home for a month and that they should try out his proposal. Upon the wife's refusal and unwillingness to grant his request that he should be hauled, she slapped her while she had their baby in her arms, she said. Later he pleaded guilty to an assault charge in the Santa Ana city court according to the complaint.

When her cousin visited them, Maddox wrestled with her, kissed her and danced excessively with her, the complaint said, pointing out that Maddox became angry when his wife danced once with a gentleman.

They were married in 1920 and separated on August 9 the complaint stated.

SUSPECTED IN CRASH OF AUTO CRASHES THIS MORNING

Los Angeles officers today were renewing their efforts to capture Cecil M. Renneker, 28, wanted with Howard H. Swanson, 27, in connection with the $15,000 jewel and gun robbery at Fullerton on July 25, when the home of Max Royer, capitalist, was entered and the loot taken.

Swanson was arrested at Newport Beach by Los Angeles officers Thursday night, after they had received a tip that he was hiding in a house there. Without the aid of local authorities, the Los Angeles police surrounded the house and took Swanson without a struggle.

At almost the same time, other Los Angeles officers engaged Renneker in a gun battle on Hollywood boulevard in Los Angeles, but he escaped in his car.

Los Angeles police announced today that nine of the 15 guns stolen from the Royer home had been recovered, but that a machine gun reported missing had not been found. It is believed that the gun was sold to a rum running outfit at Long Beach, according to a report. None of the jewelry, which included a number of watches and rings has been recovered. The guns taken have been chalked up as evidence against Swanson. A radio set, also stolen at the time has been recovered.

Wives of both Swanson and Renneker have been questioned by Los Angeles police officers but they steadfastly refused to give any information regarding the whereabouts of Renneker.

According to Sanford, the plan calls for representatives of all elements of the building industry to co-operate and function on a statewide basis. The movement has been approved by leaders of the technical and trade organizations of California, it was reported.

LEGION AIRES ARRIVING FOR ANNUAL PARLEY

LONG BEACH, Aug. 28.—(UP)—World war veterans began flocking here by thousands today to attend the annual convention of the California department of the American Legion.

More than 40,000 visitors and delegates were expected to attend the convention. Although business sessions will not be held until Monday, festivities opened today under the auspices of the Forty and Eight organization, the frolic society of the Legion. A dinner dance tonight at the Breakers Hotel and the "40 and 8" whoopee show" were the main features on today's program.

Sessions of the convention will continue for three days, during which many important matters are scheduled to come before the delegates.

Addresses will be delivered by various speakers, including Senators Johnson and Shortridge, Governor James Rolph Jr., and Ralph O'Neil, national commander of the Legion.

A close race for the command of the department is predicted, with Van Hagan, of Los Angeles, and Earl Cramas, of Redlands, reported to have the best chances for election. Four candidates are in the race to head the women's auxiliary.

One of the highlights of the convention is scheduled for Monday, when 15,000 Legionnaires will line up for a parade through the business section of the city.

reports, saying he and his wife have "positively no plans yet." The inquiries regarding Siberia were made during a visit to the Soviet embassy here.

"You will return home on a steamer," he was asked.

"Not unless it is necessary," Colonel Lindbergh replied.

The flight to China seemed assured after a visit this morning to the Chinese legation, where envoys promised a hearty welcome from the Chinese people. The aviator still was undecided as to a visit to Manila, which was being urged by U. S. Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes.

Two hundred and fifty guests attended the Japanese-American society banquet for the Lindberghs tonight, all sitting on the floor and eating with chopsticks. Colonel Lindbergh proved himself to be dexterous with the tricky implements. Apparently having schooled himself while visiting native fishing villages in the Kurile islands and eating raw fish.

Colonel Lindbergh spoke briefly, repeating his prediction that a regular air passenger and mail route from the United States to Japan will be established in the future. He and Mrs. Lindbergh were presented with a red cloisonne vase decorated with flying white cranes by Prince Tokugawa, who presided.

Hugh Herndon, Jr., and Clyde Pangborn, American aviators who recently were fined for photographing Japanese fortifications while flying from Siberia to Tokyo, were invited to the banquet but did not attend.

The two conferred with Colonel Lindbergh earlier in the day regarding their attempts to obtain a permit to attempt a nonstop flight across the Pacific ocean. It is understood the government will deny the permit, and it was regarded as highly unlikely that Colonel Lindbergh would mention the matter to Japanese authorities.

GRAPE GROWERS TO ABANDON SHIPPING

FRESNO, Calif., Aug. 29.—(UP)—Starting today San Joaquin valley grape shippers will cease buying and shipping Muscat grapes to the fresh markets for one week in an effort to steady prices in the east.

Representatives of valley shippers here last night by majority vote agreed to the week's shutdown, defeating even a motion that shippers receiving cash orders be permitted to make deliveries. The shutdown agreement would bar not only shipping, but also buying of Muscat grapes.

E. W. Stillwell, manager of the California Grape Control board, said that contracts this year were not iron-clad, but that he expected the shutdown on a basis of a "gentlemen's agreement" to be effective.

capacity of 35,000 gallons but there was less than two feet of oil in the container.

The Brea Pacific Electric substation was put one of commission by the storm and the Edison company's transformer also failed and the city was without lights for an hour. A heavy rain fell around 10 o'clock.

A freak windstorm uprooted trees at La Habra Heights yesterday about 1:30 p. m. The appearance of a bank of rolling dark clouds preceded the wind. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Johnson was partially unroofed and several large trees around the home were torn from the ground.

The storm is said to have followed a course toward Norwalk where considerable damage is said to have been done. Avocado trees in the La Habra Heights district are said to have suffered the most damage and many young trees were broken. A survey of the avocado district this morning revealed that many of the trees bent over may be straightened and saved.

When the Johnson home was struck by the wind, Mrs. Johnson was alone with several young children. The power in the La Habra substation was off for a period of two hours or more.

Newport Beach chalked up .29 of an inch, which gives the bay city .34 for the season.

Santa Ana had .01 of an inch, which coupled with the .02 received yesterday morning, makes .03 for the season. Incidentally, the Hill and Son records for the 1931-32 season are starting with this week's rainfall.

Approximately .15 of an inch fell in the Trabuco canyon district between 7 and 9 o'clock last night. Yorba Linda had .05 of an inch, making .06 for the season. San Juan Capistrano had a sprinkle of rain and a great deal of thunder and lightning.

POLICE AFTER GIRL IN WHITE RIDING HABIT

If you want to stay out of the Laguna Beach police station, don't wear a white riding habit.

Special Officer H. D. Allason was in the lobby of the Hotel Laguna at 10:45 o'clock last night when a woman wearing a white riding habit and black boots, walked up to the clerk, asked for someone and then departed.

When the officer walked out the short time later, the red police signal was on. A. E. Henry, 2645 Victoria drive, reported that a woman who answered the description of the hotel visitor had tried to enter his house through a rear door.

Henry was awakened by a noise and surprised the white clad visitor as she stood at the rear screen door. The woman said she was "looking for a friend." After she had left Henry found that a hole had been cut in the screen. The woman was described as being pretty, rather short and about 28 years old.

Nothing takes the place of Experience —in the solution of the business problems of the community which the bank must solve every day!
Sometimes, when we see one of our time-seasoned executives solve a business problem with apparent ease and assurance, with later results that make the solution seem the obvious one, we wonder if EXPERIENCE isn't most important in banking.
Back through 45 years of contact with constantly new and complex situations in Orange County our experience has covered all branches and changing phases of financing.
This seasoned experience is one of our greatest services to our customers.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

How suddenly life's changes come! It seems but a moment ago that you were radiant with joy, and the heights of happiness, and at the turn of a hand you find yourself in the slough of despondency. Yesterday the whole sunny world was yours, today you are agonizing in despair, imprisoned by overwhelming grief and with the wreckage of your hopes all around you.

Because you are sure that your dear one goes triumphantly on into higher and richer service, you are able to stumble along through the darkness with a growing confidence that light and guidance will come to lead you toward the hour when you two shall be together again.

See it that way, and you need no hand and speak a word of encouragement to others whose hearts are helping and helping them strengthen your own faith and soothe the ache in your heart.

POLICE CAPTURE ALLEGED THIEVES IN LONG CHASE

A typical movie plot of the bandits chased by officers was reenacted in real life near here yesterday afternoon, when two Mexicans, alleged burglars, were captured by Santa Ana police officers after a thrilling chase that led all the way to Costa Mesa from Tustin.

The men were taken after several shots had been fired at them, after they had escaped on a freight train, after the train was pursued and overtaken and after the men had jumped from the train and tried to escape by running through a bean field.

A police force called and told about the robbery, and immediately took up the trail of the men. From a distance they saw the two Mexicans, who gave the

POLICE ABOLISH LITTLE RED TAGS FOR OVERTIME PARKING; MOTORIST MUST SIGN TICKET

The days of the little red overtime parking tickets in Santa Ana are gone.

Starting today, no more red tags will be placed on cars to have the wind come along and blow them away, or to have motorists use that for an excuse for not appearing in court on the charges.

Equipped with new traffic tickets, white in color, Santa Ana police officers today will force overtaking violators to sign tickets when they are arrested, promising to come to court, just as they would if arrested for speeding or other violations of the motor vehicle laws.

Threaten Bench Warrants
"We are not going to say how we expect to make these arrests," Chief of Police F. W. Howard stated today. "But we will make them and the person who does not appear after signing the ticket will face being brought into court on a bench warrant in the future," he stated.

Howard declared that the red tickets had proved unsatisfactory from the start. There is no proof that the motorist ever gets it and therefore hard to convict, should the motorist fail to appear. But with the signing of the ticket, the officer has the necessary evidence to show that the ticket was received and the arrest made properly, it was pointed out.

"We will not be able to make as many arrests in the future, because it will be harder to catch all the violators of the city parking ordinances, but the arrests we do make we will be able to make stick," Howard declared.

Five Day Period
Persons who violate the law in the future, can expect to find an officer waiting at the car for them when they do come after their machine and when the arrest is made the violator will have five days in which to appear.

Howard declared that every single ticket would be kept as a record and that a "follow up" would be made on them as soon as the five day period had elapsed.

He also pointed out that there would be no way to "fix" the new tickets. The complaints will be made as soon as the arrest is made and the complaints taken to the judge's chambers. Then it will be out of the hands of the police department, so no "fixing"

EXPECT SCHOOL CHIEF TO TELL BUDGET PLANS

With the return to his office on Monday of County School Superintendent Ray Adkinson, it is expected that his personal desires relative to cutting the county school budgets by $195,000 will be made known. At the same time school officials from Orange county districts are expected to confer with him on the matter.

Adkinson authorized the cut before leaving for his vacation on the Klamath river. The board of supervisors, wishing to confirm his intention of making the reduction, authorized sending him a telegram, which was sent.

On the following day written confirmation of the plan to make the cut was received from Adkinson's office here, although no reply was received to the wire, which apparently had not reached Adkinson. This written confirmation from Adkinson's office was taken by newspapermen to be notice of the receipt of a reply to the wire.

Before leaving on his vacation Adkinson left written instructions in his office that the cut was to be made and also informed the auditor's office of his intention to reduce expenditures. His instructions said that under no consideration was any change to be agreed to in the budget reduction.

GLASGOW, Scotland—A record number of 129,810 persons attended a football match here between England and Scotland.

can be done. The only chance a motorist who violates the parking laws will have in the future, is to talk the officer out of the arrest at the time, and Howard smiled when asked about this possibility.

"The officers will have their instructions along that line," he declared. All persons who have red tickets will be forced to appear on them just as if the change had not been made, it was said.

SUPERVISORS SET TAX RATE MONDAY

The board of supervisors of Orange county will meet on Monday to set the tax rates for the next fiscal year. On the basis of present indications rates of $1.35 outside incorporated cities and $1.45 inside cities would raise the amount budgeted. These are the rates in force last year.

It is expected that the situation resulting from the $195,000 budget cut authorized by School Superintendent Ray Adkinson will be adjusted and that Adkinson's recommendations will be placed before the board again before final action is taken on the tax rates.

INSTALL COUNTY DISPLAY AT FAIR

Orange county's exhibit in the State Fair to be held in Sacramento from September 5 till 12, has been installed on the fair grounds and W. H. Wright, deputy agricultural commissioner, is leaving Monday to take charge of the exhibit and to arrange the displays on it.

NEWSPAPERMAN STARTS HOBO TRAIL SOUTH

Hoping that the session extraordinary of the Louisiana legislature which Governor Huey P. Long has called for cotton legislation will not adjourn before he gets there, Harry Weston, Little Rock, Ark., newspaperman, author, adventurer, will start Monday on a 2000-mile hobo trek from Santa Ana to the Louisiana capital at Baton Rouge.

Weston, who has been residing with relatives here at 323 East Camille, hoboed to this city from Little Rock in mid-July. In deciding on the journey to Baton Rouge, he cancelled plans for a journey to be made in a similar manner through the northwestern part of the country.

He is vitally interested in legislative politics, and has been observing California laws in action during his sojourn here. Outstanding California legislation, he says, in which this state excels, is composed of "sane traffic regulations, reasonable automobile license fees, comparative low tax rate on real property and compulsory employer's insurance."

Santa Ana is the setting of several short stories he has written recently. They will be published, he says, as soon as he reestablishes a permanent address.

AMENDMENT TO PROVISION IN CALIFORNIA CODE PROVIDES FOR COUNTY FUND TRANSFER

Two developments came to light today in the Orange county school budget situation, one of which is expected to allay any fears that school districts might find themselves without funds to operate on at the end of the coming school year as a result of the $195,000 budget cut made by Superintendent Ray Adkinson.

This turn of affairs is the result of an amendment to a provision in the school code of the state, which now requires the board of supervisors to transfer any county funds available to school districts not having sufficient money to meet current maintenance expenses. The money could come from any county fund not immediately needed. Transfers would be made in the order of application.

Limit On Transfers
Such a transfer could not exceed 85 per cent of the money to accrue during the next fiscal year. The money would have to be paid back out of the ensuing year's income before any other money was spent by the borrowing district.

In the past such a provision has been operative, but the law specified that the amount should not exceed 85 per cent of the current year's income. It has been used to tide over needy school districts between apportionments in a given year, but it is believed that the amendment will make possible for the first time the use of next year's income through the transfer of funds.

The second development came in the form of an interpretation by Attorney General U. S. Webb in an opinion to Vierling Kersey, state superintendent of public instruction. This opinion said that an unapportioned fund for use of elementary schools in cases of emergency must be set up this year.

Senate bill 833 requires the county school superintendent to add to the amount now required as a minimum to be raised by elementary school taxes, an amount equal to five per cent thereof in creating this fund. The state board of education interpreted this change as becoming effective for the year 1932-1933. Attorney General Webb's opinion, however, was issued after this interpretation was made.

High School Fund
A similar unapportioned emergency fund is required for high schools.

The new law provides for the creation of the emergency fund primarily to provide extra teachers, pupil transportation, or additional apportionments for elementary school districts requiring such emergency aid, Kersey explained.

The attorney general's opinion holds that this fund, together with a newly created county elementary supervision fund and an unapportioned county high school fund, are required to be set up this year, although the new law did not become effective until after county school tax estimates were submitted to boards of supervisors.

Cites Advantages
While this may provide a temporary shortage of funds, the advantages of the fund are expected to make up for the initial hardship.

"Under the new law it will be possible for a county superintendent of schools, with the approval of the county board of education, to provide emergency aid to school districts in which there is a sudden increase in attendance, or in which emergency need for additional funds exist," Kersey said.

"This is a new system for California and is intended to guarantee that pupils in the smaller districts will not be prevented from receiving their education because of the temporary lack of funds in such districts."

There's too much wheat, too much cotton, too much oil, too much fruit, too much money, too much of everything—except parking space and religion.

Now we know why Coolidge kept so quiet all those seven years!

Sometimes I even get to thinking there are too many laundries—sort of blame an occasional slack day on over competition.

But that's all wrong. As a matter of fact it's the other laundries that keep us on our toes. The new machines we put in, the thorough training the workers receive—the big water-softener—the use of Ivory soap—all of these, I suppose, are really the result of our having good, live competition that keeps us thinking and stepping and improving in order to remain at the top of the heap in the matter of good laundry service.

But the important fact is that we do remain at the top!

THIEF WHO WAS CRUCIFIED NOT YET IN HEAVEN

"The thief that was crucified with Christ didn't go to heaven the day of the crucifixion and has not gone to heaven yet," according to the opinion expressed by Evangelist John E. Ford last night in his lecture at the tabernacle at 2707 North Main street.

"It is impossible that Christ met the thief in paradise the same day as the crucifixion took place for Christ did not go there that day. The next Sunday morning when He had arisen from the grave He cautioned Mary not to touch Him for He had not as yet ascended to His Father. If He hadn't gone yet on Sunday it is sure that He could not have met the thief there on Friday. "Also the thief could not have met Christ in Paradise the Friday of the crucifixion for he didn't die Friday. The rulers came to the cross at the close of the day and found him still alive and requested Pilate to have the legs of Christ and the thief broken and taken down from the cross. Breaking people's legs doesn't kill them. It was against the Jewish custom to keep anybody on the cross during a high Sabbath so they would take them down from the cross and break their legs so they could not get away and then let them lay at the foot of the cross until Sunday morning when they were again tied on the cross until they died.

Josephus tells us that sometimes they lived for days on a cross and birds would come and pick out their eyes while they were still alive.

What Christ actually told the thief was 'verily, verily I say unto thee today, thou shalt be with me in paradise.' The comma, which was placed in the text hundreds of years after the Bible was written should have been placed after the word today instead of before. Christ wanted to assure the thief right there that he would be saved when He should come into His kingdom at the end of the world."

About every nine years the world's need for copper is doubled.

SPIRITUALISM

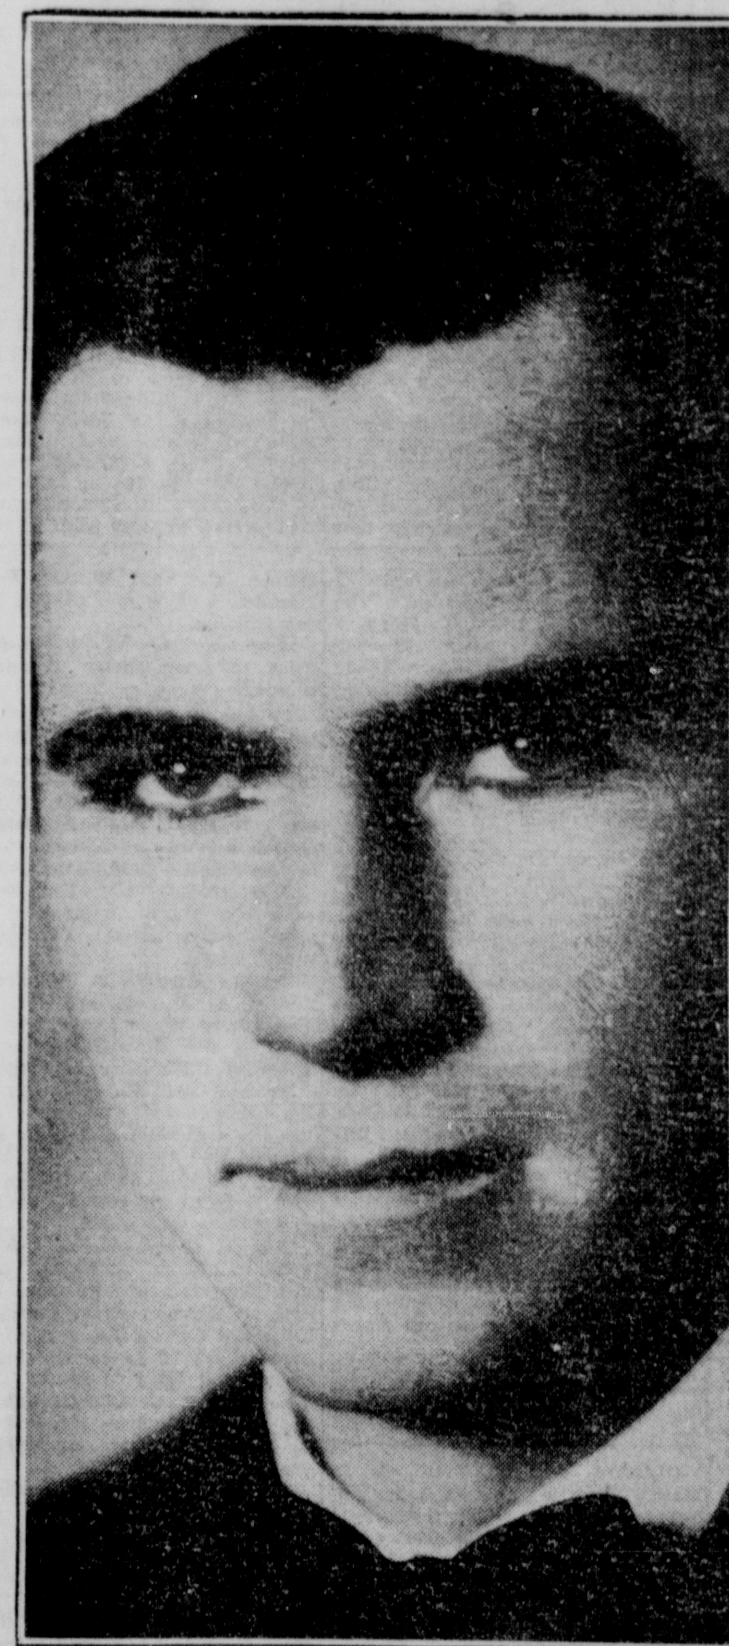

"Do the Dead Actually Appear?"

(Mr. Ford is not a Spiritualist)

The late Sir Conan Doyle, noted writer, said: "Spiritualism is the religion that is going to sweep the earth."

The savants of Europe and America are going in for psychic research and such men as Sir William Crookes, Sir Oliver Lodge, Prof. Hyslop, are pronouncing Spiritualism "the coming science."

We shall tell you of the wonderful things that Spiritualism is doing and then give you a Bible explanation of the phenomena. All this will come out in a clear, simple way in the lecture.

What Have You Planned? —for this Fall's Covercrop?

The best way to hold down operation costs in oranges and walnuts is to plant a good LEGUME cover crop. The Legumes (which include the Peas, Beans, Clovers, and Vetches) are the only soil building crops. You cannot reasonably expect to get the same plant food additions to your soil by planting the non-legumes such as mustard. There are a number of plants which will grow in an orange grove—but they will take more fertility out of your soil than they will replace. It is largely a case of "Rob Peter to Pay Paul."

Prices are lower this year on cover crop seed. For the usual fine quality seeds we quote as follows:

Purple Vetch, the best of all Citrus cover crops—
Per Cwt. $8.50
Melilotus, second best—
Per Cwt. $7.00
Bell Beans, next best—
Per Cwt. $8.25

These Are All Legumes. Plant Them.

THE MISSION TO CYPRUS

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
(Editor of The Congregationalist)

The mission to Cyprus does not seem a very distinctive or adventurous thing in a world where whole new vast continents have been discovered that were unknown to apostolic times, and in an age when the preaching of the gospel in some form or other has spread even to the remote corners of the whole earth.

But if we can transport ourselves back in thought to the time when the events of this lesson were happening, we shall be in a position to appreciate the meaning of the mission to Cyprus as a beginning of the spread of the new Christian faith westward. In the light of all that has happened even within a few weeks, few events have been of more profound significance than the first missionary journey of Paul and of his companion, Barnabas.

As a matter of fact, Paul and Barnabas were not really the first missionaries to Cyprus, for we are told in the eleventh chapter of Acts that in the persecution that arose about Stephen, some of the Christians who were scattered abroad traveled as far as Phenice and Cyprus and Antioch, preaching the word. Their preaching, however, was only to Jews, and when some of the men of Cyprus came to Antioch they started preaching the gospel to the Gentiles, with the result that many of them found the blessedness of the new experience. It was when reports of these experiences came to Jerusalem that the disciples there sent Barnabas as far as Antioch to exhort the new converts and to strengthen their faith.

The testimony concerning Barnabas in Acts 11:24 is about as high a tribute as any man could be given. We are told that he was "a good man" and "full of the Holy Ghost and of faith." Paul evidently had gone to his old home in Tarsus, and Barnabas, having gone to seek him there, brought him back to Antioch where, for a whole year they continued with the church, teaching the people in this city where the disciples were first called Christians.

It was during these days at Antioch that a prophet from Jerusalem, named Agabus, spoke of the hard times that were to come upon the world. The disciples, evidently somewhat prosperous in this busy commercial city of Antioch, decided to send relief to the Christians in Judea, and they sent this relief by Barnabas and Paul. Having fulfilled their mission to Jerusalem, Barnabas and Paul returned to Antioch, and the events of our lesson begin at this point.

Accompanying them was John Mark, nephew of Barnabas, about whom there later arose a very sharp contention between Paul and Barnabas, so sharp that the two men in a later journey took different courses, each pursuing his mission in his own way. The nature of this dispute is withheld from us, though Paul evidently felt that at one point on this first journey John Mark had failed them. He himself, however, has become a notable figure in Christian history through the simple and vivid second Gospel which bears his name.

Possibly, like almost all great missionary and religious movements, the triumphant journey of Paul took to themselves aspects of wonder and miraculous incidents that pertained more to the calm triumph of the transformation of the souls of men.

SALVATION ARMY ENDS CONFERENCE

Optimism in the face of the worst cause for pessimistic action and thinking yet faced by Salvation Army workers was urged upon the 100 officers at Redondo fresh air camp last night. Colonel William H. Gooding, commanding officer of the industrial department of Los Angeles, delivered the final address of the week. Officers from all over southern California attended the meetings.

"I have never known a time," Gooding said, "when the heart of the Salvation Army officer was tried as it is being tried this year. All day long I am called on to talk with old men, men really unable to work, who have walked the street begging for something to do. They come to us for shelter and food."

The officers urged the 100 workers to return to their homes to take up the task of being good Salvationists. This conference, according to Brigadier James Dee, commanding officer of the Orange belt division, and Major A. Krantz of the Los Angeles and south coast was the most successful ever projected in southern California. A second session of similar sort is planned for next year.

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

BY VERA RAMSEY

For some years Stuart Chase has been eyeing the American scene with a penetrating gaze and analyzing its foibles with shrewdness dressed in an entertaining style. A year and a half ago he returned from Mexico to the United States. He found some startling contrasts in the two civilizations. His new book, "Mexico: A Study of Two Americas," tells of some of these.

Although this is a book about Mexico, it is also a sermon for the inhabitants of the United States. In vivid colors it depicts the contrasting culture below the Rio Grande. There according to this author, with due allowance for certain exceptions, while material standards of living are low, there is no destitution. There are no electric refrigerators or late models of motor cars, but neither is there any unemployment. The bases for comparison are "Middletown," penname for Muncie, Ind., and a corresponding survey of a mountain town in Morelos, entitled "Tepoztlán." The latter has a handicraft culture, which is not affected by business depressions. The houses are built of local material and each is constructed by the man who will live in it. All this is contrasted with the highly organized scheme of things in Middletown. If rubber fails in the tropics, Middletown, without motor cars, would be lost.

So much for the economic contrast. What about individual happiness and self-sufficiency? In Tepoztlán, Mr. Chase insists, nobody starves spiritually or physically. He deems the play of primitive handicraft culture superior to our over-commercialized, mechanized, standardized, sitting, watching, listening, second-hand participation, and considers that the Mexicans get more fun out of their recreation. "They take their fun as they take their food, part and parcel of their organic life. They are

A SERMONETTE

REV. EDGAR M. ROBB

Pastor Free Methodist Church

"The Neglected Book"

"THE NEGLECTED BOOK" is our subject. Let us read two passages from God's Word, the first is found in Second Timothy, the third chapter and the sixteenth and seventeenth verses, "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." The second is in Hebrews, the second chapter and the third verse, "How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation?"

If we miss heaven it will be chiefly because we have neglected to read and practice the Bible in which we will find salvation provided in our Lord Jesus Christ. The Bible is the neglected book in America today. To neglect a farm means weeds and little or no crop; to neglect housekeeping means dirt and disease; to neglect an automobile means heavy repair bills later and a short lived car; to neglect husband or wife means happiness destroyed and the divorce courts; to neglect our duties to the government means national disaster; to neglect business means bankruptcy. God has written but one book, the Bible, for, "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God," hence to neglect it is a fatal mistake. Sir Walter Scott said when dying, "Bring me THE Book." When asked what book he desired, he replied, "There is but one book," and he was brought the Bible. The Bible is the only book that is able to make us wise unto salvation. To say we are wise concerning this world or the next and not to know the Bible is a pretense. "All Scripture is profitable," to say we are prospering in business and at the same time neglecting the Bible is a delusion. We are succeeding in this world at the expense of the next which is always poor business. "All Scripture is profitable for doctrine," the reason false doctrines are flourishing is because the Bible as a whole is not properly known. Neglect the Bible and we become easy prey to false doctrines and fanaticism. Never less taste and more need for the book of books than now for this one purpose. "For reproof," the Psalmist said, "Wherewithal shall a young man cleanse his ways, by taking heed thereto according to thy word." We all need it, old as well as young, and the Bible will continually do it if we will but read and practice its plain teachings.

"For correction," the Bible is the only book that corrects us at every point. A problem in mathematics may be right in the main, but one mistake means the wrong answer, so our lives may be right in many ways, but one sin persisted in will mean our eternal undoing. "Instruction in righteousness," the crying need of our boys and girls is a clear, well defined knowledge of right and wrong. We are confronted at all times with the question, "Is it right?" The answer outside of the Bible is not to be depended upon. Crimes like those being committed every day by mere boys would be almost if not altogether impossible if the Word of God were properly taught. The result in summary of continuing in the Word is, "That the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." This means that the Bible completes us in grace, so we may be a whole number, not a fraction morally; it also teaches practical results, it fits us for "good works."

The eyes of the subject in a good portrait follow the spectator wherever he stands. So with the Bible, it condemns us or assures us in whatever we do. A poor widow said, "My Bible was the guide of my youth and is the staff of my age; it wounded me and it healed me; it condemned me and it acquitted me; it showed me I was a sinner and led me to the Saviour."

The only hope for America is a revival of interest in the Bible such as this description gives of long ago, "In England, when the great Bible, just translated, stood on its desk chained to a pillar in the cathedral, the people gathered in throngs, and, standing on the stone floor, listened attentively, hour after hour, and if the reader paused would cry out, "Read on! Read on!"

Wild Animals Wanted

Big Game in the Rockies

A herd of Rocky Mountain sheep, of the kind the Carmichaels stalked. "They stood in the snow, as still as if carved out of marble."

When beast wars against beast, there is fiercer battle waged than in any human hunter's story of his kill, as is proved by these thrilling stories of the grizzly that knocked out a deer, and the terrier that tracked down a mountain lion

By MARY CARMICHAEL

AFTER the jaguars, anacondas, butterflies and monkeys we had collected in South America, as I told about in my last chapter, were all safely delivered, the question again confronted the Carmichael family:

"Where do we go from here?"

Brothers Tom, Jack, Bob and Bill consulted together. As for Sister Mary, she was ready for anything the boys might decide. "Anything" turned out to be the Far West, American and Canadian, for when Tom, the head of our family, studied his orders, he found that he had a great many for grizzly bears—a family group to be stuffed, for a museum, and as many live bear cubs as we could bring back.

Also there were orders for the mule deer, for mountain sheep that seldom leave their craggy and almost inaccessible mountain shelves, and for the cougar, or mountain lion.

The grizzly bear is king of North American animals. He is enormous, shrewd, cunning, exceedingly keen of scent and amazingly like men, when he faces an enemy.

The grizzly bear is a born boxer. I shall never forget that magic moment in the Canadian Rockies when I crouched behind a protecting boulder sweeping the far country with my field glasses.

Ahead of me I made out in the distance a great grizzly springing from ambush on a deer. Old Grizzly got up on his rear legs when he had reached the deer; striking out like a Jack Dempsey, he struck the deer with rights and lefts till the animal was down and ready to become his supper.

There is an Indian legend that the grizzly was once a man, but that the Great Spirit deprived him of the use of his arms except when he was in great need of them for defense or attack.

This season we decided to stalk our grizzlies through the difficult and rocky regions of Canadian Mount Finlay.

For days, after we had made base camp, we packed through the most cruel country, rough and thorny. Finally, after Tom and Bill had located many bear tracks, but no bears, the head of our house decided that we must persuade them out of cover by the good old fire method.

BEARS hate fire, more than any other North American animal. So that morning a dozen brush fires, carefully tended by my four brothers and our dozen camp guides and helpers, arose through that rocky region. It was a most arduous piece of work, with the boys rushing here, there and everywhere, to keep the fires under control and to smoke out a bear.

But after an entire day of this, we had not one bear to reward our most difficult labors. Brother Tom mopped his weary forehead by the camp fire that night as he told us his decision:

"There certainly are bears, probably not five miles away from us. But we have scouted about so thoroughly that the place is full of human scents. So tomorrow morning Bill and I will go out again and see what we can see."

They did, and picked up fresh bear tracks. The big track was nearly three hands large, and all about were the careening tracks of a cub. Tom realized that the region thereabouts was pretty dry of food suitable to great hungry grizzlies, so he killed two deer and left them to entice the bears. Next morning, bright and early, we started out to find our bear.

With a start of marvel and pleasure, we caught, through our powerful field glasses, such a sight as kindles the imagination of the weariest bear hunter.

There, far ahead, was Mamma Bear with her youngster, standing before the second deer. Her pose was as if she were shaking her head, even scratching it, as much as to ask: "Now just what is sensible here?"

Plainly she decided that extreme caution was the reasonable thing, for she would go nearly up to the deer, then back away and look. She was firmly convinced—perhaps by some vestiges of human scent—that the wise bear should have nothing to do with this tempting dinner right at hand. But the cub was not so long headed. The little eager creature made rapid dashes at the deer, snatched off little mouthfuls, which it seemed to eat enthusiastically. Then it would turn its ardent young head to its mother, as much as to urge: "Mamma, dear, why go hungry when dinner is ready?"

We looked on, breathless.

Finally the hungry old mother bear could stand her hunger no longer. With a roar and a spring, she fell upon the deer and started to devour it. By this time Tom and Bob had worked their way around so that there was a good chance of a clean shot. The boys shot—and the bigger bear went down, clutching her shoulder, with a sort of human concern. A second shot, and she fell, quite still.

The little one scampered off, howling in fear. We caught up with him in about an hour. He is now reposing, beautifully stuffed, in an eastern museum.

That incident seemed to break the long wait for grizzlies, for next day, when the boys were out scouting, something rustled suddenly in the brush ahead of them. It was not 50 feet distant.

ALL hunters know that it is far safest to bring down your bear at 250 yards. In a hot moment when a big grizzly suddenly faces you, five times nearer than is at all safe, there is nothing to do but shoot, with a prayer for a good aim. So, as the bear started towards us, I prayed hard.

A closeup of the cougar, or mountain lion.

Out rang the shots, four of my brothers doing their stuff at once. Ten feet from where we stood, the bear went skidding down among crackling brush and thorns.

But the boys have always said that had one of them been there alone, he would never have come back to tell how it happened. For one man, shooting, could not possibly have stopped that mighty grizzly. The grizzly, as my brothers long ago decided, comes on faster and "stops" more bullets—for a longer time—than a rhino.

After we had the bear skinned, we had an interesting example of something old hunters have averred, with emphasis. That is that a horse will not endure even a grizzly hide on its back. We tried several of our pack horses, and they shied off from the load. That strong scent must have called up cruel incidents when the horse had perished at the onslaught of those powerful grizzlies.

Finally the oldest pack horse of all, after a few shivers, tal agony. Soon he fell, lifeless.

The cougar started his dinner, to be reinforced in a moment by the old and apparently feeble terrier that the deer had felt behind. There was some snapping and fencing. Finally, when the stronger had eaten his fill, he withdrew and let the other one partake of dinner. And so another silent tragedy of the wilds was finished.

But several days later we set out with six hounds, several airedales and a small terrier, to capture what cougars we could for a museum group.

We were amused at the idea of hunting cougars with the little terrier, for it was such a baby it tried to ride in front across the saddle of whatever one of us would put up with it. But the terrier's owner, Gartner, assured us that this little creature was just what we needed.

ONE morning we heard a hound baying up a canyon. Gartner told us it was Bess, his oldest hound. Shortly afterward we could hear the eager baying and barking of the other dogs. I do not believe there is anything more musical than the baying of hounds through the wide and echoing canyons of some great mountain in the Canadian Rockies.

Ahead, as we pressed on horseback, we could see the hounds crossing the canyon and climbing the opposite side, while the airedales came after, ears up, waiting for the sign from their master. We lost sight of them, almost lost sound of them, then topped a rise and saw them again.

Finally we got close enough to view an interesting spectacle, there in the wilderness.

The lion had turned at bay at the foot of a great boulder, and was snarling at the dogs. It was an impressive sight, the great beast so much like an enraged domestic cat, fighting for its life. The dogs went wild.

The terrier, which we had smiled at, proved his worth. He kept running back and forth, worrying the cougar, as a mosquito worries a man.

One of the hounds, a pup, tried that too, but one fleeting blow of a great forepaw sent him hurtling into the brush, to die the next moment, disemboweled.

The airedales were likewise valuable in worrying the cat. But as soon as my brothers came up, they saw they must end this quickly before we lost more dogs. A bullet from Bill's carbine dispatched her with one shot, and that hunt was over.

WE had other orders, and most interesting it was to fill them. I shall remember as long as I live that magic moment when my brother Jack handed me the glasses below the summit of the "Hog Back" at Mount Carruthers, and a wave of pleased excitement swept over me as I saw them—the first time in all my life. There they were, a family of mountain sheep, resting snugly on a far-away mountain shelf.

The ewes were lying down, apparently asleep. The ram was on his feet, watching, very alert. How different they looked, in their own habitat, from the best "set" in the best museum.

The ram's beautiful head was thrown back, as if in challenge. He seemed as though sculptured from fair white marble, he was so still and alert. I gave back the glasses with regret.

Bob told me to lie there and watch the stalk. He is the best rifle shot I ever saw, but even he could not be sure of a vital shot at such a great distance. Then the wind turned. That made stalking still more difficult, because if the sheep got our scent, all our labor would then go for nothing.

The sheep, seen without glasses, were mere white dots, as I strained my eyes, waiting and wondering what the boys would be able to do. Then suddenly I heard the crack of a rifle at my left, the direction the boys had gone. The ewes were scrambling up the mountain.

I watched the spot I knew to be the ram. It lurched forward and slipped down, rolling over the rocks, fell for what seemed to be about a hundred feet, to become wedged between the boulders.

bore to be loaded with the grizzly pelt, and so we started back to camp, a weary yet very pleased family.

Our trek next led us to the mountains of Arizona; we had United States permits to hunt the cougar or mountain lion, and we also had several orders for them. The mountain lion always inhabits regions where there are many deer, and so with this hint we hunted down deer-inhabited regions.

THE cougar kills his quarry as his African cousin, by falling upon it with his two deft forepaws and instantly breaking its neck.

Before we got our cougars, I witnessed a most dramatic spectacle. Far ahead raced one of the most amazing sights I ever saw. As I looked, there sped a deer running frantically. A cougar had leaped at it from ambush and apparently had missed, and the panic-stricken deer was making its escape.

As the deer sped off I had to clasp my hands quickly, in sheer terror, for that deer—which was certainly leaving the cougar in the distance—was speeding, nevertheless, to certain death. For as it approached a clump of low trees, I saw another rather small ball of fur waiting there, intently. And as the deer went underneath, down on his back dropped a half-grown cougar and held on there with cruel intent.

The deer reared, and plunged, sure of what fate awaited him, I knew. But it was no use. Half with the glasses and half from past knowledge of cougar and deer, I knew how those cruel claws were sinking into the back of the beautiful deer, with what desperation he raced, in his mor-

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Mr. Robert Zupke is catching a lot of criticism for his recent statement that "my Illinois football team of last fall (which won three and lost five) could play the Chicago Bears or Cardinals, or any other pro club to a standstill." . . . and another that "a team like Notre Dame's in 1930 would score four touchdowns on the best pro eleven before the latter knew what was going on." . . . George Halas, former intercollegiate and pro star, now manager of the Bears, thinks Mr. Zupke "is talking through his hat." . . . and Dr. Davis Jones, president of the Cardinals, offers to donate $10,000 to charity if the 1931 Illinois team (which promises to be better than last fall) or any other college team designated by Herr Zupke will play and beat the Cardinals.

THE FAN'S DILEMMA

Who is going to comprise your all-star major league baseball team for 1931? And if you choose to choose one, what consideration are you going to give batting averages, so different in the rival looks because of the difference in the baseballs used.

There's a nice little problem to keep you awake nights. Slug Bodie hits .321 in the National league while the ball is dead. Babe Bowman is batting .348 in the American where it still has a kick left in it. Both are star right fielders, dependable hitters in the clutch and good catchers in the bases. You can roll and toss until the wee hours deciding whether Slug or the Babe is the man for the spot.

One way to get around it is to name the Athletics intact. Of course you're in wrong right away with the Cardinal fans. But your neck and ears are going to redder no matter how you approach it.

NUCLEUS OF FOUR

Just the same, the A's are a pretty good place to start. You won't make enemies selecting Grove, Earnshaw, Simmons and Cochran. That accounts for pitching, catching and left field assignments. But with six open positions where do you go next?

Terry is a pretty fair first baseman and a great hitter. But so is Charley Grimm. And what about Geirg, Morgan, Hendrick, Hurst and Fox?

Ordinarily, you could write Gehring, Frisch and Thompson on separate slips of paper and draw one out of a hat for your second baseman. But not this season. They have been out of the lineup too much. So has Criz.

25 'FRESHMEN' MAKE GOOD IN MAJOR LEAGUE

BY HENRY McLEMORE

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—(UP)—Add to your list of country boys who have made good in the city the names of at least 25 major league baseball rookies of 1931.

Of course, there is a certain amount of risk involved in entering the rosters names so early. But if you please, have done well enough to all but guarantee their presence under the big top in 1932.

You need have no fear of entering the names of such youngsters as Paul Derringer and "Pepper" Martin of the Cards, Johnny Vergez of the Giants, Volney Hebert of the Browns, Joe Vismek of the Indians, and Carl Fischer of the Senators.

These babies will have no need of their straw suitcases for quite a while.

Neither will Worthington, Schumacher and Urbanski of the Braves. Mooney of the Giants, Lombardi of the Robins, G. Walker of the Tigers and Sullivan and Frasier of the White Sox.

There may be no Ty Cobbs, Babe Ruths, Eddie Collins and Christy Mathewsons among this year's rookie crop, but taken as a group, 1931's newcomers constitute as fine a freshman class as the majors have seen since—well, you name the date.

The year 1931 was not without its lemons, however, and the first one to come to our mind, for no reason at all, is that eminent caller of hogs, "Poa Ridge" Day of the Robins. It is our guess that "Poa Ridge" will pick up hog calling next year where he left off.

Other big disappointments include Charlie Wilson, who was expected to provide the Braves with the best third basing in the league; Nick Cullip of the Reds, who did all right until the pitchers, the old meanies, started curving 'em; Harvey Walker of the Tigers, who with his brother Gerald, was supposed to provide baseball with another toptoph brother act; Sigafoss of the Reds; Murray Howell of the Robins; Hank Waddey of the Browns, and Howard Craghead of the Indians.

Saints Hitch Hopes To Line

OLIVER GRIDS POWERFUL SET OF FORWARDS

Jim Musick in 1926-27 and Al Reboin in 1928-29-30 made Santa Ana high school football teams powerfully efficient on offense for five years.

There are no Musicks, no Reboins on Santa Ana's 1931 roster. At least, there appear none at this early writing, but "Tex" Oliver, the Saints' wily coach, is not bawling his luck as he prepares to mobilize his men for practice Monday.

He contemplates no reason why Santa Ana shouldn't have a "representative football team" this season, and that should satisfy his opposition that the Saints, as usual under Oliver, will be hard to beat. At worst, they will be no soft touch.

The reason for this quasi-optimism is due no doubt to the possibility that Santa Ana will have a strong, sturdy line, perhaps as big and good as any Oliver has coached since arriving at the Orange county capital in the fall of '26.

Some Silver Clouds
Certainly, if Oliver is able to beg, borrow or steal a set of backs to go with his pack of Saint forwards, Santa Ana's possibilities seem far brighter than might be reckoned when it is considered that 18 lettermen from the 1930 eleven are lost by graduation or ineligibility.

Reboin, All-coast league quarterback for three years, is the most serious loss, of course. "Audacious Al" rates with Ory Melier of Alhambra, and "Red" Franklin of Long Beach as the finest backs ever produced by this conference, and Santa Ana has no player to replace Reboin anywhere near his equal at any branch of football.

Harold Pangle, the 180-pound fullback who ran Reboin's interference for three years and helped him make his reputation, has graduated, too. So have Don Crumley, a back of three years' experience; "Hed" Higashi, All-league end; and Dallas Reichstein, Joe Preininger, Garth Olsen, Roy Harvey, Jim Danerl, Tom Beasley, "Gib" Meisinger, Bill Donahue and Glenn Minter, all first string linemen. Miner Whitford, Lynn Chamberlain, Tom Cole, Lee Hoffmaster and Kent Martin are five able substitutes who will wear Saint spangles no more.

Five Lettermen Return
The passing of these 18 veterans leaves Oliverly five seasoned men—Captain "Toy" Blower, a fine end of two years' experience; "Red" Kidder, a sound halfback; Lawrence Lutz, one of the best tackles in the whole league, and "Red" Wilson and Fred Bell, small but fast, shifty backs.

Oliver counts on the development of several of last year's unwarded substitutes to make his line. With Blower and Lutz as a nucleus, the Saints will have a forward line that may average close to 175 pounds. "Tex" Harris, a spring practice discovery, is expected to replace Higashi at one end, and if Jimmy Lash develops as hoped, he probably will play the other wing, enabling Oliver to make a back out of Captain Blower who is the team's best kicker and passer.

Willard Noe, a huge blond, has the inside track to Preininger's post at tackle, with the husky and veteran Lutz handling the other.

Miles Norton and Andy Utick, 180-pounders, are considered first team timber at guard. Norton started the Long Beach game last year. He is from a family of football players that has been represented on Saint elevens since 1924.

Mellott Probable Center
Walter Mellott, a Class B graduate of 1929 who was held back by appendicitis in '30, is considered best of the center candidates. Although it is untied against keen competition, Oliver believes his line will be about as good as any in the league.

He isn't so sure about his backfield.

It was the lack of an outstanding ball-packer that persuaded Coach Oliver to turn to the Rockne, shift during spring practice, the Notre Dame style of play making every back a potential carrier. Kidder, exclusively a blocker last fall, may do some of the packing this season for he is reasonably fast and clever. If Blower can be moved into the backfield that will help a lot, too. The Saint captain-elect is the most versatile man on the squad. Bell and Wilson, holdover veterans, will be of use, but are small and not likely to stand 60 minutes of tough going.

Best of the backfield prospects are Duane Larabee, undoubtedly the star of spring practice scrimmages, and Herb Meyer, who showed possibilities as a "B" last year. Francis Conrad, a sophomore, may develop rapidly, too. Built for heavy work, he is apt to replace Kidder as a blocker. Other outstanding candidates include Iard Runyan, Tom Carlyle, Paul Ferenich, Horace Enders,

City League Series Will Open Sept. 2

Wednesday, September 2 was fixed as a tentative date for the first game of the Hill and Garden-Public Playgrounds baseball series for the Santa Ana City league championship at a meeting of managers yesterday.

The teams will play three-out-of-five games, with contests Wednesday, Friday, Monday, Wednesday and Friday, unless Santa Ana should win its National Night league playoffs with Anaheim. In case the Stars upset the dope, the City league series dates will be changed, according to President Kenneth Morrison.

An admission fee of 10 cents will be charged at the City league playoffs to provide a "family picnic" for all who participated in games this summer.

U. S. AMATEUR GOLF PLAY TO BEGIN MONDAY

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—(UP)—With only one day intervening before the start of the National Amateur golf championship at Beverly Country Club Monday, a majority of the players were on the scene today for their final practice rounds.

The course, 6702 yards long and par 71, has proved difficult for the contenders who have tried out their shots in practice rounds. No player has yet been able to break par.

The best card thus far was turned in by William Lawson Little Jr., San Francisco, who defeated Johnny Goodman after the Omaha youth had eliminated Bobby Jones in the first round at Pebble Beach in 1929. Little was out in 38 yesterday and back in par 35 for a 73, two over par.

George Voigt, New York veteran who has never been able to get past the semi-finals, had the next best score, a 74. Dr. Oscar Willing, Portland, Ore., dentist, who lost to Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston in the 1929 final had a 77. Russ Martin, Chicago, was the only other player to break 80, carding a 78.

A high wind helped to make playing conditions adverse, but the players generally agreed that the course is a difficult one. Most of them found the sixth, tenth and 18th holes baffling.

The belated entry of Cyril Tolley, former British amateur champion, has raised the discussion among many players as to whether he should be permitted to play. Tolley did not compete in the preliminary qualifying test last month nor did he signify his intention of entering the tournament at the proper time as did John and Alaric De Forest. Two English players who were invited to compete without qualifying.

If Tolley plays, the field will be increased to 153 players, and he will have to play his qualifying round alone.

MISS RAVIOR FIRST IN CANADIAN SWIM

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 28.—(UP)—Miss Margaret Ravior of Philadelphia, today ranked as one of the world's leading professional women swimmers as a result of her victory in the Canadian National Exhibition's 10-mile marathon swim in Lake Ontario yesterday.

It was Miss Ravior's second successive triumph in the event, and earned her the first prize money of $5,000. Mrs. Ethel Hertle Gary of New York, 1928 winner, took second place and $2,500. Miss Ethel McGarry of New York finished third, less than 100 yards behind Mrs. Gary. Her share of the prize money was $1,000.

The winner's time was 4 hours, 56 minutes, 42-2-5 seconds.

VINES MAY BE SEED NO. 1 IN COURT PLAY

BY LES CONKLIN

(I. N. S. Sports Writer)
NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Heard along the sports Rialto:

Ellsworth Vines, lanky 19-year-old Californian, is likely to be seeded No. 1 when play in the national tennis championship starts at Forest Hills next Saturday.

Only a pain in the turn-tum kept the west coast sensation from making a clean sweep of the five major tournaments in which he participated this season. A cramp forced him to default to George Lott in the semi-final round at Southampton.

Johnny Doe, defending champion, can hardly hope to be seeded among the leaders in view of his sorry showing—five defeats in six tournaments. There has been nothing like it since the Athletics dropped to the cellar after winning the pennant in 1914.

If Doe loses the coveted No. 1 spot, he will be the first champion to be so humiliated since the U. S. L. T. A. adopted the seeding system.

The new National league baseball, which to date has cut the league's scoring by more than 1000 runs and its home-run output by 250, is likely to be adopted by the American league before next season, which is one of the reasons why Babe Ruth is now making a tremendous batting drive and will insist on a two-year contract when his present document expires next month.

The Babe is only one day behind his record year, 1927, when he spurted down the stretch to total 60 homers. In that year, however, the season extended into October.

The new ball should curtail those long-drawn-out games in the junior circuit. The Yankees, who require a naverage of 2 hours and 12 minutes to play a game, are the worst offenders. The Athletics, who end the agony in the average time of an hour and 53 minutes, are the greatest hustlers in the league. The average ball game in the circuit lasts 2 hours and 1 minute, statistics show.

John McGraw of the Giants and Joe McCarthy of the Yankees, using all their resources in an effort to finish in second place in their respective leagues, are not trying out rookies players, with the exception that McGraw, in a moment born of desperation, gambled successfully with Southpaw Jim Mooney. McGraw is so anxious to finish ahead of the Cubs that he plans to press the injured Fred Lindstrom back into service at the earliest opportunity.

Meanwhile Rogers Hornsby, gambler that he is, is experimenting with two kid infielders, two rookie hurlers and an outfielder recalled from the minors. Though his experiments may cost Chicago the second place berth, the Rajah is wisely building for 1932. He knows full well that the rookie who makes good in August, when the hurlers are bearing down with every pitch, is a much safer bet than the recruit who sets the grapefruit league on fire in the spring only to fold up and wither away along with the roses late in June.

PASTOR WINS U. S. TRAPSHOOT TITLE

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 28.—(UP)—The Rev. Garrison Roebuck, a United Brethren minister from the little town of McClure, O., today held the most coveted of all trapshooting honors, the Grand American handicap championship.

The championship netted Roebuck $110 in cash and trophies. Alfred Rufus King, 15-year-old Wichita Falls, Tex., boy, who won the title last year, was well down the list with a score of 82. The boy was handicapped by a broken bone in his right foot.

O'Hannigan Wins Hollywood Bout
HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 28.—(UP)—Hymie Miller, Los Angeles junior lightweight, outpointed Harry Walinder in the feature bout of a card of four-rounders at the American Legion stadium last night. In one of the preliminaries, Pat O'Hannigan, Santa Ana middleweight, outslugged Tony Cadena.

Less than two weeks after G. H. Higgenbotham, known as "Big Hig" when he played football for Charley Moran on the Texas Aggie elevens of 1911 and 1912, became golf pro at Bryan Country Club he registered his first hole-in-one.

Title Playoffs Begin At Colton Friday

The annual National-American Night league championship playoffs will begin at Colton next Friday.

Decision on such effect was reached here last night at a conference of managers of the Santa Ana, Anaheim and Colton clubs.

Colton has already clinched the inland title and will meet the winner of the Santa Ana-Anaheim series in a four-out-of-seven playoff.

Games will be played September 4-8-11-14-16-18-21, if the series goes the limit of seven games, with the place of each alternated, but the seventh, if necessary, in the National league city.

Jack Dillon and Sam Jolley were appointed umpires from this league.

OVER the WALL

Santa Ana and Anaheim play the sixth game of the playoffs at Anaheim Monday. Tickets are available at Victor Walker's.

If the Stars win Monday, and square the series the seventh and final contest will be held here Wednesday.

Joe Mene, Leavitt Daley and Johnny Rice made defensive plays of the whole series. Mene jumped high in the air with one hand to stab Mandy's long left field drive in the second inning.

Rice must have run 50 yards to make a one-handed catch of Nelson's robust fly in the second. Nelson himself went into deep center to stare Kohler's high drive in the seventh.

Schuchardt, Anaheim's ace fly-hawk, was out of the game with a broken toe. With the series apparently in the balance, he wasn't taking any chances of getting his star hurt for the Colton games.

Cornelius will toll for the Stars again Monday. Manager Lackaye reports that Bell Hill, Merrill and Schuchardt delivered his first home run to Anaheim. The first when Catcher "Red" Lemon threw wildly to second base, the second when Kohler let Rice's relay go through him to the Anaheim dugout. It was a totally unexpected run as far as the Stars were concerned. The Valentines haven't been guilty of much sloppy fielding this year.

Santa Ana stretched its lead 4-0 in the sixth. Leavitt Daley walked and scored all the way from first on Brother Ed's double to right center. Ed Daley scored the next instant when Nelson crashed a ringing single to the same spot. Nelson pashed at second, however, when Mandy intended relay to the plate for Daley hit Nelson on the arm, Scholder recovering the ball in time to throw to Neal for the putout at second.

Anaheim got its first run in the eighth, which Max Moody opened with an infield single to short. Rice's terrific trille to the right-field bank easily scored Moody. There was none out and Anaheim tried hard to further the rally, but Cornelius, pitching smartly, got Errington on an easy infield chance to "Doc" Smith, fanned Lemon and looked Orv Schuchardt, pinch-hitting for Neal, on a feeble fly to Leavitt Daley.

The Valentines looked dangerous again in the ninth, but one run was all they could coax out of Cornelius, even with the assistance of a timely "wire hit." Scholder singled to center. Mandy struck out. Kohler popped straight up in the air and got a lucky hit when the ball hit a wire and dropped safely in front of home plate. That looked like a tough break for the Stars, particularly when Preble kicked through with a sharp single to center, scoring Scholder, but Moody fled to Mene and Rice fouled to Ed Daley.

Grapevine reports no doubt unreliable also, have it that Howard Morning will pitch for Anaheim next season.

Three Teams Unbeaten In Net Doubles

Three teams are still undefeated in the Santa Ana city doubles tournament, now under way on the high school tennis courts. "Memphy" Hill and Randolph Bell, Dr. Ray Smith and George Preble, and Carson Smith and Gilmore Ward are the combinations yet to suffer a reversal.

Bell and Hill this week won from Dr. Kenneth Coulson and "Feet" Welmer, 7-5, 6-0, and from Franklin Burke and Eddie West, 6-0, 7-5.

Dr. Smith and Preble defeated A. E. Berry and Mason Yould, 6-2, 6-1, and Arno Finster and Gene Robinson, 5-7, 6-3, 6-4. Ward and Smith beat Tom Crawford and Don Park, 6-2, 6-2, and Frank Bettis and Toby White, default.

H. G. and Lewis Wetherell also were double winners, defeating Veri Moyer and Frank Nickey, 6-3, 6-4, and Berry and Yould, 6-3, 6-2.

Next week's assignments: Monday—Berry-Yould vs. Ward-Smith; Finster-Robinson vs. Coulson-Welmer.

Tuesday—Bell-Hill vs. White-Bettis; Wetherells vs. Smith-Preble.

Wednesday—Berry-Yould vs. Coulson-Welmer; West-Burke vs. Ward-Smith.

Thursday—Moyer-Nickey vs. Finster-Robinson; Bell-Hill vs. Smith-Preble.

Friday—West-Burke vs. Crawford-Park; Wetherells vs. White-Bettis.

Saturday—Crawford-Park vs. Finster-Robinson; Wetherells vs. Ward-Smith.

STARS STILL IN RACE FOR BALL CHAMPIONSHIP

The "Little World Series" isn't over yet.

In fact, it may not be over for quite a spell if Santa Ana's Stars are as full of fight Monday as they were last night when they cracked Anaheim, 4-2, at the Bowl, and made the series count 3 and 2.

The Valentines are still ahead, but they didn't look at all like clinch champions losing to George Lackaye's crippled but inspired trouper.

In fact, the Stars outplayed Anaheim in every branch of the game, with "Iron Man" Joe Cornelius having an edge over "Fuzzy" Errington, and courageously extricating himself from the only two holes in which he found himself.

Cornelius gave seven hits, five coming in the last two innings. Four of those bingles were of the scratch variety and one was Anaheim's fourth "wire hit" of the series.

Errington was effective, too, especially in the early and late rounds, but the Stars bunched seven safeties off the slow-ball specialist in the fourth, fifth and sixth for enough runs to win.

It was the first time in five games that the Stars got the jump on their rival, and they piled up a lead that stood up all the way behind Cornelius' gritty slugging.

The Stars got one in the fourth when Joe Mene doubled to left center, took third on "Rozzy" Merrill's infield out and tallied on Leavitt Daley's infield hit. Wayne Nelson, who had been robbed of a home run his first time up, when Johnny Rice made a marvelous catch of his long drive to the scoreboard, followed with a screaming single down the right-field foul line, but Daley was trapped off third and run down by Kohler and Lemon when Mandy made a rapid recovery of Nelson's blow.

Darwin Scott, first up in the fifth, beat out a high-bouncing ball to Kohler back of third base. He stole second and came all the way home on two Anaheim errors—the first when Catcher "Red" Lemon threw wildly to second base, the second when Kohler let Rice's relay go through him to the Anaheim dugout. It was a totally unexpected run as far as the Stars were concerned. The Valentines haven't been guilty of much sloppy fielding this year.

Anaheim got its first run in the eighth, which Max Moody opened with an infield single to short. Rice's terrific trille to the right-field bank easily scored Moody. There was none out and Anaheim tried hard to further the rally, but Cornelius, pitching smartly, got Errington on an easy infield chance to "Doc" Smith, fanned Lemon and looked Orv Schuchardt, pinch-hitting for Neal, on a feeble fly to Leavitt Daley.

The Valentines looked dangerous again in the ninth, but one run was all they could coax out of Cornelius, even with the assistance of a timely "wire hit." Scholder singled to center. Mandy struck out. Kohler popped straight up in the air and got a lucky hit when the ball hit a wire and dropped safely in front of home plate. That looked like a tough break for the Stars, particularly when Preble kicked through with a sharp single to center, scoring Scholder, but Moody fled to Mene and Rice fouled to Ed Daley.

FOR HIS ART'S SAKE

LONDON — News has reached here of the death of Senor Canigao Rusinol, famous Catalan author and artist. FUND PLEDGED ON COSTA MESA FLOWER WORK

COSTA MESA, Aug. 29. — Approximately 35 Costa Mesans have pledged monthly subscriptions towards the highway beautification work, which will net about $25 monthly towards the work of maintenance. About $40 has been given by another group of 30, who paid various amounts.

Miss Sarah Conant, secretary of the group, will receive any further contributions, and she may be found at the Costa Mesa library from 2 to 7 o'clock daily except Sunday and Monday. More funds are needed and contributions of any amount will be appreciated, Miss Conant states.

The beautification work of the highway was a project of the Friday afternoon club, started three years ago, with Mrs. Florence Morrill as chairman of this department. From a barren unsightly waste, along the railway right-of-way to a beautiful array of green and varied bright flowers has been the result. From Nineteenth to Broadway along Newport on each side of the highway, the plantings, through care have remained and grown in beauty each year. From Nineteenth to Twenty-third, for two years bright popples greeted travelers.

W. Carl Spencer planted the right-of-way from Eighteenth street to the lumber yard and it is now bright with flowering border plants and a background of flowering vines and shrubs. The strip near the Woman's clubhouse across from the railroad track was planted and largely taken care of by clubwomen.

To the Editor of The Register: Santa Ana citizens on September 29 will vote on the Metropolitan Water district bond issue which means that, if it carries, a mortgage of $220,000,000.00 will be placed against every home in the district.

Santa Ana's portion of this vast sum will approximate $2,000,000.00 with the assurance that more money will be required to finish the project. Interest due each year will be about $100,000.00 for 15 years when bond payments begin and annual expenses increase for the period of 50 years. The interest payable yearly would be equal to a tax rate increase on present assessed values of five cents.

When we joined the district we were told that the aqueduct would cost $150,000,000. Chief Engineer Weymouth now says that it will cost $283,000,000.00. What I wonder, is to be the final cost, and what water will be furnished us and at what point.

Just first hand objections that present themselves to the investigator are worthy of serious thought. There is the special legislation that has appeared before, allowing the bonds to carry by a bare majority of the votes cast, in place of the usual two-thirds in constitutional manner which has been proven safe and sane, and affording some protection to real property.

Then there is the alleged plan for the allotment of the water, which, as is understood is to be allotted each year on the assessed valuation basis. Los Angeles quite naturally will continue to grow much more rapidly than Orange county cities, either by increased population or by annexation, and it is fair to assume that it is possible for that city to so increase its assessed valuation, that it would be entitled to all or nearly all of any water the metropolitan district might bring into the Southland.

Again, the water cannot be used for irrigation even should there be a surplus, and if it could be so used, it would be too costly.

Why did the district last year seek to get an amendment through the legislature to give it the right to condemn the water of mutual water companies?

INSTANT DEATH TO FLIES WHEN NEW SPRAY USED

"The trouble with most fly sprays," says J. S. Sidford, Special Agent of the Union Oil Company in Santa Ana, is that they merely stun the flies and fail to extinguish them completely.

"Some experiments we made at the Union Oil Company refinery at Wilmington showed that with many sprays as high as 35% of the flies were up and going again at the end of a few seconds.

"Union Fly Spray, the newest addition to our list of quality household helps, showed 99% killings of flies and moths under the same test. So far as we know, it's the most efficient FLY AND MOTH SPRAY yet developed. Yet it is absolutely harmless to humans and pets. And it will not stain even the daintiest fabrics.

"It's pleasant to use, too. We have it available in two scents, Mint and Floral. Another feature of the New Union Fly Spray Gun that doesn't drip—no matter how much you use it."

Every Union Oil Company Station and many other dealers now have the Union Fly Spray and the New Union Fly Spray GUN. Pints are $5.00, Quarts $3.50 and Gallons $2.55.

heavy burden of debt for this city I will be glad to get light and invite any who can so aid to come to my office in the Pacific building.

When voting it is but right to seek information, so that one may vote intelligently, and for the best interests of the community. We all know that we need water in Orange county, but let us all so inform ourselves to the end that we will know reasonably well, that we will get what we need.

JAMES C. METZGAR.

Editor Register—In these aggravating, perplexing and sorrowful days of unemployment we are all (or at least should be) racking our brains in the endeavor to find some practical means of alleviating the situation. I think we are all agreed that straight charity is not what is wanted, either by the donors or recipients. Most of the unemployed men don't want, and are not asking for charity. They want work and are anxious to give full value for their wages.

And so this brings to me an aged old man of mine, which I have suggested many times to the Associated Chamber of Commerce and other organizations, which would furnish employment for scores of men and give the taxpayers full value for their money when completed. I refer to an automobile road to the top of Mt. Santiago, or "Old Saddle-Back," as it is more affectionately known by our people.

This mountain has an altitude of 5,680 feet, rising almost directly from sea level, and its crest furnishes the most magnificent and uninterrupted view obtainable in all this southland, embracing practically all of Southern California and as far as Table Mountain in Mexico. It is purely an asset of Orange county, and a road to its summit would not only furnish our own people with a major recreational point, but would soon become nationally famous and attract thousands of tourists to our locality, thereby adding very materially to our commercial possibilities.

From the investigations which have already been made, the most feasible route seems to be by way of Santiago canyon, past Irvine Park and up Silverado to the foot of the north peak of the saddle, from which point the contours of the mountain and the general character of the soil formations present no serious difficulties to the construction of such a road.

Such a highway, when completed, would at once take its place among the greater attractions of this entire country. Its advertising value would be something immense and its commercial results would be far greater than will probably be indicated by first conception.

Why not do it NOW? Why not help these unemployed men and at the same time give to Orange county a mighty and noteworthy project which will endure through all the generations yet to come?

Very respectfully,
LINN L. SHAW.
